

Efficiency Vital To Planetary Health?

Energy News: Energy efficiency is vital if the world's leading nations want to curb global warming, officials at the Group of Eight summit said last week. The necessary long-term steps are to "promote the appropriate policy approaches and instruments, including inter-alia economic incentives and sound fiscal policies, minimum standards for energy efficiency, sound and ambitious energy performance labelling, information campaigns aimed at consumers and industry that enhance national awareness, sector-based voluntary commitments agreed with industry, investment in research and development and guidelines for public procurement." Read more from the UPI [1].

Source URL (retrieved on 01/30/2015 - 6:45am):

http://www.ecnmag.com/blogs/2007/06/efficiency-vital-planetary-health?qt-most_popular=0

Links:

[1] http://www.upi.com/Energy/Briefing/2007/06/08/g8_energy_efficiency_key_to_climate/1491/