Communication Software Provides Onscreen CAD/CAM Tutorials

Training users in CAD/CAM, VX Corporation's Show-n-Tell communication software presents video tutorials showing onscreen step-by-step lessons and automating design review and markup as a 3-D Markup tool. The program offers 3-D models that can be rotated and zoomed, and QuickTips instructions for common questions and productivity tips using videos, stills and text instructions. The software launches by loading a VX file without installing video drivers or codecs, and without using paper. Users point out problem areas on a model or drawing by creating annotations and pressing a record button to capture the view orientation and zoom state.
